INTRODUCTION

People use language as communication. Communication is simply the act of transferring information from one place to another. People use many variations in communicating in order to share their feelings and ideas such as verbal and nonverbal communication. Communication makes information can easily be delivered from the speaker to listener. Communication requires that the communicating parties share an area of communicative commonality. Effective communication only occurs if interlocutors give the appropriate contribution in talk exchange. Sometimes the listener misunderstands what the speaker says. This can occur if the speaker does not say something directly what he/she means, when the speaker does not say what he/she means, it means he/she implies the meaning. It can be understand if the listener can misunderstand the speaker’s utterance because sometimes what the speaker means is different with what speaker says. Make your conversational contribution such as is required, at the stage at which it occurs, by the accepted purpose or direction of the talk exchange in which you are engaged.

Successful communication can occur by means of obeying the maxim; there is still a problem when a speaker does not follow the rules of maxims. Generally, a speaker has particular purposes in braking maxim that he or she wants interpreting to achieve. There are five breaking maxims developed by Grice, they are flouting, violating, infringing, opting out, and suspending (Thomas, 2013). From the five breaking maxims, violating is one of used failure that occurs in conversation every day. If speakers do not purposefully fulfill certain maxim, there will be maxim violation. Grice (1989) states that when the speaker does not fulfill or obey the maxims, the speaker said to violate the maxims. Cutting (2002) states that violating happens in order to deceive a hearer with letting the hearer only knows the surface meaning of an utterance. Saying something which is not true is an example of violating. Violation is the condition where the speakers do not purposefully fulfill certain maxim (Tupan & Natalia, 2008).

Ross (2005) states that the definition of humor is something that aims to make a person laugh or smile. It is as a condition that can cause people laugh in everyday life. However, humor appears not just as an entertainment but also has characteristics or form and function of its own.

Comedy is supposed to make us respond in a certain way, e.g. smile, giggle, laugh. Arguably, this is the chief defining characteristic of comedy films. However, we do not have definite answers to why we smile and why we laugh. Of course, one could argue, as does Dirk Eitzen (1999), that we laugh and smile because evolution perpetuates behaviors that results in social bonding in humans. Indeed, many researchers have argued that laughter and amusement have more to do with social interaction than with the structure of jokes or private physiological responses (Provine, 2000).

The phenomenon of the humor serves in several media such as book, television, radio and even online media (social media). Social media such as Facebook, Twitter, blogs, as well as the photo and video-sharing sites YouTube, and Instagram. One of them is Keluarga Beti in which many utterances happen among the characters. This comedy series told the story of life, especially Beti’s family in their daily lives, with her friends and neighbor. The contents of sentences in that comedy series show many conversations involve some main characters in Keluarga Beti. The main characters in the series were violence in realization to make interaction among the speaker from each other in communication. The preliminary data which takes from the conversation happens in Keluarga Beti comedy series. This sentence follows realization of violating maxim in Keluarga Beti comedy series in it:

The reason for choosing the realization of violation maxims by main characters in Keluarga Beti comedy series because comedy usually contains humor or unusual language, sentences, phrase, word that contain the violation maxim. This comedy series relate to occurrences of the different situation of violation maxim in conversation in another research.
