Introduction

Medan City is the capital of North Sumatra province. It has the title of the third-largest city after Jakarta and Surabaya, which is known as a tourist destination that has a very diverse and fantastic tourism potential with unique characteristics. Besides that, the arts and culture in Medan City also represent various ethnicities from the people living in Medan City. The rapid development of globalization impacts each region to compete to highlight their regional identity through their arts and culture and package local potentials to make them more attractive than other areas.

One form of promotion that the Medan City Tourism Office is being carried out in promoting the preservation of Medan's distinctive arts and culture is the "GeMeS" Malay Serumpun Movement program. GeMeS is a Malay cultural event held at the Maemoon Palace in Medan. The event concept is a colossal Malay dance performance and Malay cultural arts performances from 5 different countries and ten provinces in Indonesia and North Sumatra. In 2019, GeMeS was attended by participants from allied countries such as Malaysia, Brunei Darussalam, Thailand, Singapore, and South Korea. The participants from various provinces were added, including Yogyakarta, West Java, West Sumatra, Lampung, Riau, Bengkulu, Nangroe Aceh Darussalam, and Jambi.

Besides, participants from other regencies/cities in North Sumatra such as Binjai, Tebing Tinggi, Labuhan Batu Utara, Langkat, Deli Serdang and Batu Bara will also be enlivened by the performance of the capital city artist D' Academies, namely Deswa, Ayu, Alibi, Intan Baiduri and Lusi KDI, are ready to entertain guests and attendees with dangdut and Malay music. The GeMeS event is also supported by all Regional Apparatus Organizations (OPD) within the Pemko Medan so that they can help and socialize through the media that Gemes does highlight not only the arts and culture of one ethnicity but also the unity of cultural arts that exist throughout the archipelago with Malay nuances. GeMeS itself aims to highlight the local wisdom of the distinctive culture of Medan City as a primary culture to become a tourist attraction force for Medan City. Although Medan City has a multi-ethnic culture, geographically, Medan City has a local culture, namely Malay culture.

Of course, in implementing the GeMeS program, there is a role for strategy and promotion used through advertising media. The advertisement must use good grammar to understand the aims and objectives of the GeMeS program. Besides, good grammar is also carried out by the Medan City Tourism Office by persuading contingents from outside the country, such as Malaysia, Singapore, Thailand and other Southeast Asian countries, to attend and participate in implementing the event by giving an official invitation. Starting from the way of writing the language, the media used, the banqueting process to the services performed, they must use good grammar so that the contingent from abroad is satisfied with the benefits of the Medan City Tourism Office.

Based on research conducted by Jalilifar, according to the theory of Patpong (2009) in Jalilifar (2019: 213), the use of language in advertising is one example to show the use of persuasive speech. However, Pakpong only explained advertising in general, not specifically in the tourism sector. Promotion in the language is the main thing in conveying information about something that is being implemented. The delivery process and good grammar, of course, will attract public attention. Language is the primary key to strategic planning and promotion undertaken.
This is also in line with Maulina (2018) research, which explains that the language of persuasion in advertising has the nature of providing information, persuading, inviting, giving advice, and even influencing consumers to be interested in following the wishes of the producers. Ads with the right level of persuasion will also play a significant role in shaping a trend and even forming an awareness and construction of one's thinking. The characteristics of persuasion language are persuasion or an invitation to do something. A paragraph or essay containing elements of influence is usually used to support politics, education, advertising and propaganda.

Specifically, based on the results of research conducted by Nainggolan et al. (2020: 27), persuasive language is the language used to persuade and influence consumers to follow and tend to do what producers ask or say. The way that can be done so that the language of persuasion achieves its goals is to use language in invitations, suggestions, suggestions or input, commands, and affirmations as examples of the languages used in print media advertisements.

Then, based on Hassan's (2017) research, like other promotional materials, tourism promotion can be printed or printed in electronic form. One of the main functions of a tourism promotion tool is describing one’s country through self-presentation using a tourism language style. Like other promotional materials, tourism promotion can be printed or printed in electronic form. One of the main functions of a tourism promotion tool is describing one's country through self-presentation using a tourism language style.

In another study conducted by Tunggala & Saadjad (2019: 199), promoting an in-depth understanding of the market is needed, which then becomes the basis for formulating promotional strategies and programs. The existence of mass media in promoting tourist objects can lead to effective communication. Besides, the promotion also requires a publicity strategy, a whole unit of methods by using various media as a tool that is assisted by psychological factors, sociodemographic statistics and research to spread ideas, sell products and make the organization known. It also optimized their tourism gimmicks through print and electronic media and online media with their respective mottos. For this reason, the use of print and electronic media and online media is a communication strategy in the promotion of tourist objects, where the aim is not only to inform but to persuade tourists so that the tourists concerned have the desire to come to visit the promoted area.

Based on these data and descriptions, the researcher would like to examine further the promotional strategies used by the Medan City Tourism Office in the process of organizing the GeMeS event as well as the grammar used in promoting the event and inviting contingents from abroad to attend and participate in the GeMeS event. The purpose of the research carried out by the researcher was to find out how the form of promotion strategy carried out by the Medan City Tourism Office in the implementation program of the Malay Allied Movement (GeMeS) in Medan City and to find out how the use of grammar carried out by the Medan City Tourism Office in spreading promotions using Systematic theory. Function Language (SFL).

Method

The research design used by the researcher is qualitative. According to Sugiyono (2013: 13), qualitative research is a new research method. This is because qualitative research is called a study based on the philosophy of postpositivism. Qualitative research can also be naturalistic research because it is carried out in natural conditions or what is said to be a natural setting. Qualitative research views social reality as complex, dynamic, full of meaning and has interactive relationship symptoms. Research is also conducted on natural objects, which develop as they are, not manipulated by researchers, and researchers' presence does not affect these objects' dynamics.

In this study, research participants were employees or staff/employees of the Medan City Tourism Office, who took part in the Malay Serumpun Movement (GeMeS) event in 2019, totaling three participants. The data collection technique is done by interview, observation and documentation. The data analysis used in this study is: observing data from the Serumpun Malay Movement (GeMeS) event, making a structured interview list so that when conducting interviews more focused and not running away from the research objectives, providing interview assistance tools such as stationery or recordings to help copy the results of interviews, describe the results of research starting from the profile of the Tourism Office, the characteristics of research informants, research results and discussion of research data as well as drawing conclusions and providing suggestions.

This section will describe the research findings and analyze the persuasive speech of the promotion strategy found in the invitation letter from the Medan City Tourism Office to the Italian Ambassador and the framework of reference made by the Medan City Tourism Office related to the GeMeS event. So the participants who attended were not for all public circles, but more to the invited countries.

- "To preserve Malay arts and culture which are world heritage as a tourist attraction in each region". The meaning of this sentence is that Malay culture is a culture that has various ethnic types. differences. Not only culture, types of dances, various dance movements, types of songs, food, and so on, also have significant differences between one Malay culture and another. In this section, researcher will describe research findings and analyze the persuasive language of promotional strategies found in brochures distributed via e-mail or social media related to the GeMeS event, including the following:

a. The Language of Advertising Persuasion

Data Sources: Research Results, 2020

Based on this "Series Of Event" brochure, it can be seen that all "Series Of Event" indicators are the language of advertising persuasion. This is because the indicators specifically listed show the promotional advertisements of the events the GeMeS event will hold to the public. With this information, the public can find out what series of events will be held later.

Data Sources: Research Results, 2020

The "Participant" brochure explains that the 2019 GeMes event promotion advertisement also describes which regions, provinces, and countries have participated in previous years. It should be noted that the main targets of the GeMeS Event in 2019 this time are India and Korea. Because from 2017-2018 countries such as Malaysia, Singapore, Brunei Darussalam, and Thailand have participated in the GeMeS event. However, at the time of sending the invitation letter, India and Korea had not responded well.

Data Sources: Research Results, 2020

In the "Purpose and Objectives" brochure, the persuasion paragraph of advertising is also visible on the "promotion" indicator with the content "This event is a medium of publication in attracting tourists. Introducing cultural heritage as a tourist attraction. It is known that the Malay culture has its characteristics and attractions for tourists who visit Medan city. It has also been explained here that this event was held to attract tourists and introduce Malay cultural heritage to the public. This is done because the Malay culture has unique characteristics that can attract tourists to visit. Then, still with the “Purpose and Objectives” brochure, the persuasion paragraph of advertising can also be seen in the “Contact Us” indicator, where this indicator explains to find out complete information related to the GeMeS event being held, so contingents from abroad can find out more detailed information with contact the contact listed.

Data Sources: Research Results, 2020

The purpose of this information being disseminated is as a form of information media and to convince the audience that the GeMeS event is not arbitrary, but classy and prestigious because it can present participants from abroad.

b. The Language of Propaganda Persuasion

Meanwhile, the word "Ahoy" is a typical greeting designation of Malay culture. So when combined the word "Kedan, Ahoy" means a typical Malay greeting addressed to the people of Medan City to attend and watch GeMeS event performances.
c. The Language of Education Persuasion

Data Sources: Research Results, 2020

Based on the brochure “Purpose and Objectives”, educational persuasion sentences in this study are contained in the "Education" indicator. Education here is a form of explanation to the public that the GeMeS event is also intended as a medium of education, especially for the current generation. Where there have been a lot of foreign cultures that have influenced the younger generation. With the presence of a typical Malay arts and culture event, the Medan City Tourism Office hopes that in the future the younger generation will be able to recognize, preserve and develop Malay culture as a culture that has unique characteristics, various kinds of songket cloth, language, customs, religions, and others.

Data Sources: Research Results, 2020

It can be seen that an exhibition is a show of a certain object which is shown to various kinds of public circles. Also, exhibitions are not only exhibiting in nature but can also be educational. This is because, from the objects that are displayed, there is information and knowledge that is useful in everyday life and as a treasury of knowledge in a person. Related to the research conducted by researcher, the songket exhibition and food exhibition displayed at the GeMeS event are not only showing. Instead, it provides education to the local people of Medan city and foreign tourists who are contingent for the GeMeS event that for Medan City and other provinces that have Malay ethnicity, the songket cloth made by the Malay community is not the same. There are differences in motifs, fabric materials, thread models, and others that can form certain meanings. With the songket exhibition being held, it can provide education and public knowledge of the types of songket cloth and the meaning of the symbols contained therein.
Based on articles published by Akses.co. and then re-uploading it by the GeMeS Facebook account can educate the people of Medan City who don’t know that the GeMeS event provides new information and knowledge that the Malays in Medan, North Sumatra are the original ethnic groups of Medan City. It should be noted that most of the people of Medan City and outside Medan City have a perception that the original ethnicity of Medan City, North Sumatra is Batak. Therefore, the Medan City Tourism Office wants to provide new education to the public that the original ethnicity of Medan City, North Sumatra is not only Batak but also ethnic Malays who have long controlled the coastal areas and Medan City.

Findings

After analyzing and then describing the research results that have been found by the researcher, the researcher will conduct a discussion related to the theories put forward and related to the research results, including as follows:

The Medan City Tourism Office as an institution under the Government is an agency that manages tourism activities, ranging from development, infrastructure, conservation, education, and so on. One of the efforts to develop a tourism marketing strategy is to create a GeMes (Serumpun Malay Title) event which aims as a means of promoting Malay culture and establishing friendship in the arts and culture both with other regions and abroad.

The form of the marketing strategy carried out by the Medan City Tourism Office is included in the marketing distribution channel stage. Marketing distribution channels also play an important role in realizing the ideals of tourism development. Through advertising and public relations activities carried out by various agencies or organizations included in the marketing distribution channel group, ranging from travel agencies, event organizer service providers or others who are expected to build the image and promotion of the tourism destination. Promotional messages disseminated through advertisements and other promotional tools can influence expectations of the intended vision and can influence perceptions and levels of satisfaction and travel experience.

One form of preservation of Malay culture promoted by the Medan City Tourism Office is by holding a GeMeS event which will be held from 2016 to 2019. To carry out this implementation, the Medan City Tourism Office needs to hold a form of promotion so that the implementation of the GeMeS program can run smoothly, maximum and achieve the goals that have been set.

The basic reason the Medan City Tourism Office invites contingents from abroad to participate in the GeMeS event is that these countries are countries that have ethnic Malay communities that also preserve Malay culture. With the GeMeS event, the Medan City Tourism Department hopes to be able to preserve Malay culture globally and internationally, introduce typical Malay culture ranging from food, the exhibition of songket fabrics, songs, and dances and be able to add knowledge and knowledge about Malay culture from various regions and countries.

One form of promotion carried out by the Medan City Tourism Office is to invite regional, provincial, and foreign tourists to participate in the implementation of the GeMeS event, such as Malaysia, Brunei Darussalam, Thailand, and Singapore. The form of promotion is given by using an official invitation letter sent to the Italian Ambassador to be translated into English from being sent to the embassy of the invited country. After that, the Medan City Tourism Office will create a framework of reference so that the promotion, dissemination, and implementation process can run effectively.

The promotional language used to invite foreign tourists to participate in GeMeS events is by using persuasion language, where persuasive language specifically describes the promotion of GeMeS event which are advertising, propaganda, and education in nature. According to Tubbs and Moss in Mulyana, 2013: 65), persuasive language is a process of creating meaning between two or more people that involves giving meaning to these people. Persuasion language is also aimed at an attempt to change or encourage other people to change their behavior towards something.

Regarding the promotional invitation given, the persuasive language at the GeMeS event aims to invite domestic and foreign tourists to participate in the GeMeS event organized by the Medan City Tourism Office. The form of participation that was followed by contingents from within and outside the country was dance performances, songs, food, songket cloth, and souvenirs from both regions and countries that have Malay culture.

For overseas contingents, the reason they participated in the implementation of the GeMeS event was that the promotions provided by the Tourism Office attracted their attention, such as the facilities, infrastructure, and facilities provided by the organizers as long as the contenders from abroad were in Medan City. They felt benefited by the GeMeS event. They only need to spend funds for departure and return, but other facilities such as accommodation, hotels, food, and so on are covered by the local government of Medan City.

Besides, with a promotional language that is educational and invites people who have Malay culture abroad, it creates a deep sense of curiosity for overseas contingents. This is because basically, the Malay culture is unique to the Province of Sumatra, therefore with the invitation to participate in the GeMeS event, it indirectly provides opportunities for overseas contingents to study Malay culture more specifically.

Conclusions

After analyzing the data findings and conducting a discussion, the conclusions of this study are as follows:

1. Implementation of the persuasive language used in the promotion strategy of the Serumpun Malay Title (GeMeS), which is divided into three parts, namely advertising persuasion where the strategy is aimed at advertising and promotion to both overseas contingents and the public who are invited to participate in the GeMeS event. Then the propaganda persuasion, where in the promotion that is spread, words and language are inserted to emphasize the typical Malay culture as an identity that the GeMeS event is a tourism activity for the preservation of Malay culture. And educational persuasion, wherein the promotion of the GeMeS event organizers also hope that the holding of the GeMeS event can become a medium of exchange and educational media for the typical Malay culture of each region, province, and country starting from dances, songs, food, songket fabrics, and souvenirs.

2. The persuasive language of the GeMeS event organizers occurs by distributing various forms of promotional media such as brochures, articles, invitation letters, and so on.
Then this promotional media is also spread through social media Facebook with the official GeMeS account. It aims to provide information and knowledge to the public more widely.
