INTRODUCTION

Semiotics is an academic field dedicated to the study of signs and symbols for what they communicate spoken and unspoken things that all have the meanings for every single sign or symbol. Semiotics cannot be separated from human life, in daily activities so many signs can be found, and it can be recognized in many forms such as forms of texts, images, performances, multimedia productions, traffic signals, fashion, action or objects, aromas (Chandler 2007). Semiotics is the study of signs, and how these signs stand-in for anything else.

Signs found in Batak Toba ceremonies. Which is happened in Gotilon ceremony. Gotilon is an activity done by humans to take the results of the rice plant when it has turned yellow. In the Gotilon Batak Toba ceremony, people hold their tradition by doing the Gotilon ceremony once a year. In Batak Toba, the function of rice is not just a staple food but more than. Rice has an important symbolic function in Batak Toba culture. For example, Boras si Pir ni Tondi means "soul-strengthening rice". Symbolically, "strengthens the soul or spirit". Itak Gurgur means "rice flour" which is flaring up because of heat (Gurgur). It is made the Gotilon is unique harvest than others. That is the meaning of symbolism to raise a weak spirit (soul) so that it gets exciting again. Indahan na Las "Warm Rice" is a symbol of warmth and joy. So from the statement-making, it is clear that the rice harvesting (Gotilon) is a special or different from any other harvest.

In the Gotilon Batak Toba ceremony in Dolok Sanggul Humbang Hasundutan There are several signs and symbols found it looks from the types of their words or utterances and several symbols. From the several signs, Batak Toba people need to understand the meaning of each sign on the Gotilon. Nowadays, no more people know the meanings of the signs and symbols on Gotilon, that is why the purpose of this study is to bridge the target in conveying deep meanings in the Gotilon Batak Toba ceremony. This study also to convey the denotative, connotative, and myth meaning as the realizations of the signs, and to describe the reasons for the sign realized.

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

1. Semiotic theories

Ferdinand De Saussure (1957) defined a sign as being composed of a ‘signifier’ (signifiant) and a ‘signified’ (signifié). Signifier and signified into two elements that make a sign. The signified and Signifier have a relationship that occurs in the realization. Where the Signifier is realized by Signified or Signified to realize the Signifier. This signified our conceptual component is not just a material object, it can be the thought or the idea of an object. The association between the signified and the signifier is arbitrary; it is mostly influenced by culture or context of use. In the case of media studies, a signifier is any image that is conveyed to the audience. Though signifiers and signified can be separated by semiologists; they form a unit called a "sign". 'Signifier' is interpreted as the material or physical thing of the sign that can seen, heard, touched, smelled, or tasted like a sound pattern. 'Signified' is known as the concept that refers to the object. In other words, Signifier refers to the physical aspects of a symbol, such as speech, image, and painting. While signified refers to the mental aspect of the symbol. The relationship between the physical existence of signs and mental concept means signification (Chandler, 2002). So, signification is an attempt to give meaning to the world.

Roland Barthes (1915-1980) develops semiotics into two levels of signification, namely the level of denotation and connotation. Denotation is a level of signification that explains the relationship of signifiers and signified to reality, producing explicit, direct, and certain meanings. The connotation is the level of signification that explains the relationship between the sign and the sign-in which the meaning of the operation is not explicit, indirect, and uncertain. The first order of signification is denotation. In this level, of sign that consisting of signifier and signified. The connotation is the second order of signification which uses the denotive sign (signifier and signified) as its signifier and attaches to it an additional signified. The connotation is a sign which derives from the signifier of a denotative sign. A signified on one level can become a signifier on another level. This is the mechanism by which signs may seem to signify one thing but loaded with multiple meanings (Chandler, 2002).

In the framework of Barthesian cultural studies, myth, like connotation, can be seen as a higher order of signification. Barthes stated that a myth is a culture's way of thinking about something, a way of conceptualizing or understanding it. Barthes thinks of a myth as a change of related concept. A myth is a story by which a culture explains or understands some aspect of reality or nature.

2. Culture

Culture is the form of traditional behaviors that is built by the members of society to show their identity or characteristic, includes belief, knowledge, law, morals, and etcetera. Culture word comes from Sanskrit, namely buddhahayah, which is a plural form of buddha (mind or reason) interpreted as matters relating to the human mind and reason. Traditions are the community’s traditionally cultural activities inherited orally from one generation to the other generation, the tradition is verbal or non-verbal (Sibarani, 2012).

Batak culture can interpreted as an area commonly called the Batak land. Batak Land is a local around Lake Toba, Batak people place, settled in North Sumatra. According to A.Sibeth, the Batak ethnic group is the largest ethnic group of Indonesians after Javanese, Sundanese, Chinese-Indonesian, Madurese, and Malay. The Batak tribe consists of six sub-tribes, namely Angkola and Mandailing in the south, Toba in the center, Dairi and Pakpak in the west, Karo in the north, and Simalungun northeast.

3. Gotilon

Rice (Orizae Sativa L) is a plant that requires sufficient water in his life. This plant is classified as semi-aquatic which is suitable to be planted in flood location. Usually, rice is plant in rice fields that provide necessities enough water for growth. Even so, rice can also cultivated in dryland or fields, the term rice field. Harvest is the time when grain, fruit, or vegetable already to cut or pick.

Gotilon is the best opportunity for every people for the blessing received from God. In the Batak tradition, The Gotilon is the feast of the Great Harvest to express gratitude, joy, and awareness of the good variety of the perfect gift, blessing, fortune, maintenance, and protection of God in every step of our lives. This Gotilon party is already a momentous year for Batak people, that every year is always celebrate.

To supported this research, there are some relevant studies to this research that have been made by other researchers. These relevant studies also will be used as references and guidance to help the researcher have a deep understanding of signs so that the author can conduct her study in a good way.

The first previous study conducted by Sari (2016) analyzed Handbody lotion in television advertising, the research was the meanings and myths used to create beliefs regarding the advertising messages to the society. The purpose of this study was to determine the denotative meaning, connotative meaning, and myths contained in Citra Hand and body Lotion television commercials. This study is qualitative using the semiotic analysis of Roland Barthes.

The second previous study conducted by Azin (2015) analyzed woman’s image in Iranian used Barthes's theory, This study is qualitative using to find out the meaning in denotation and connotation of Women’s Image in Iranian TV Commercials Based on Barthes Visual Semiotics

The third previous study conducted by Kusuma (2017) analyzed ritual Otonan Bali, this research was found the signs on the ritual in Bali culture and found the meaning of denotation, connotation, and myth. The research paradigm was the research perspective used by researchers about how researchers see reality, how to study phenomena, ways used in research, and used to interpret findings. The constructivist paradigm sees a reality formed by a variety of backgrounds as a form of reality construction. This research analyzed from objective of the color, kind of their clothes, and utterances in their prayers. The constructivist paradigm aims to understand what constitutes reality’s construction. Therefore researchers must be able to know what factors drive a reality can occur and can explain how these factors reconstruct the reality.

From those previous studies, it can shown that the study of signs on Gotilon Batak Toba ceremony is still rare. The writer also used Roland Barthes' theory which is proper with this research object. The research is related to culture and history. Therefore, this research used the same theory as previous studies.
