Abstract
This thesis examines the types, the used and the reasons why language styles used in Fabrizio Romano on his Instagram account, using Martin Joos’s theory and a qualitative descriptive method. There are five styles proposed in Joos theory. The source of data is Instagram and there were 50 captions founds as the data. Those captions in Fabrizio’s Instagram were analyzed in order to classify them into their own styles. This study reveals that Fabrizio Romano uses four of five language styles in his Instagram captions: formal style (26%), casual style (40%), consultative style (14%), and intimate style (20%). Each style has a distinct tone and communication style, with formal style indicating a formal tone and proper nouns, casual style using conversational expressions, contractions, or shortening, and consultative style asking for advice or predictions. Intimate style conveys personal sentiments and emotions, highlighting joy and enthusiasm, and is addressed to followers based on events. The choice of language style is deliberate, with formal language maintaining professionalism and credibility, while casual and consultative styles foster engagement and inclusivity among a diverse audience. Incorporating intimate style allows for a personal connection with followers and a sense of authenticity. Overall, these language styles work together to enhance the overall experience and success of Fabrizio Romano’s Instagram account.

INTRODUCTION

The language is distinguished not only by the rich variety but also by the use of various language styles for each individual. Keraf (2010) defines language style as “a typical way of expressing thoughts through language that reveals the soul and personality of the writer” (language user). According to Joos (1976), there are five types of language styles. He distinguished five types of language styles: frozen, formal, consultative, casual, and intimate. This gives each user's language its characteristics when conveying language.

It is possible to see a person's language style not only through direct interaction but also through indirect interaction, such as social media or the internet. The use of social media or the internet is now unquestionable; almost everyone in the world uses social media to interact directly from a distance.

There are numerous types of social media, particularly applications available on electronic media, one of which is smartphones, where smartphones are a useful communication tool for connecting interactions between one person and another. WhatsApp, Telegram, Twitter, Instagram, and other applications are available on the smartphone.

Instagram is a social media application that allows you to interact with a large number of people while also displaying all of your activities in the form of videos and photos. Instagram is a mobile app that allows users to share captioned photographs and videos. In response to these posts, other users are encouraged to like, comment, and interact with one another. As previously stated, Instagram is one of the most rapidly growing social networking sites (Anderson & Jiang, 2018; NORC, 2017).

Research on language style is usually carried out on a film or other literary work, this time the researcher wants to examine language style on one of the social media, namely Instagram. Instagram is very popular among young people, researchers invite readers to see what style of language is used in Instagram captions. The language style for films, novels, poetry, and others, as well as in social media is the same, it's just that the data to be retrieved is different. When compared to films, the data taken is the dialogue of the film actors, while for social media (Instagram) the data to be taken is the caption of each post on one of the Instagram accounts. This study examines several captions from the Instagram account of a football journalist, Fabrizio Romano. The researcher chooses this Instagram account as a research on language style because his account is verified. It means, he has a lot of people to follow him and then he is the one trustworthy and fast to showed up the transfer news. Fabrizio Romano uses several social media to report football news transfers, such as Twitter, TikTok and Instagram. The news Fabrizio’s reports on Instagram is aimed at everyone who likes football.
In the post of above, in the figure (a) the caption can be categorized as a casual language style, because it using informal language, contraction like “he’s” and mention specific player using first name. This caption is addressed to followers about Sergio Roberto sign new contract. This caption is in the form of written text with informal tone. Meanwhile, in the figure (b) can be categorized as a formal style, because it using proper nouns, formal language, and emphasis on the prestigious award highlights the formal context. This caption is addressed to followers about Best Football Journalist. This caption is in the form of written text with formal tone.

The scope of the study is to analyze the language styles used in Fabrizio Romano's Instagram account based on language styles by Joos (1976) to find out the types and describe the types of language styles in that account and the reasons why they are used.

The significance of the research is theoretically to provide a forum for thinking in the field of linguistics regarding the use of language style. Practically, the results of this study can be used as a reference for students of English literature at Universitas Negeri Medan, who want to continue research on language style and function of language in other social media.

Future research can also use the findings in this study to analyze language style in other forms of social media such as YouTube, Facebook, Twitter, TikTok, Line, Pinterest, WhatsApp, or Telegram.

REVIEW OF LITERATURE

1. Language Variation

Language variation is a characteristic aspect of communication, influenced by the person who uses it and the context. Holmes (2017) explains that the choice of code, whether language, dialect, or style, is influenced by the addressee and the context. Linguistic variation also includes vocabulary, sounds, word-structur, grammar, and syntax. It exists due to the use of a single language within a community, such as men not speaking like women and older people not speaking like younger people. Hudson (1996) defines language variety as a set of linguistics items with similar social distribution. Ferguson (1959) defines language variation as speech patterns that are sufficiently homogeneous and have a large repertory of elements and their arrangement or process with broad semantic scope to function in all normal communication contexts.

2. Language Style

   According to Joos (1976) there are five categories of language styles, they are: frozen style, formal style, consultative style, casual style and intimate style.

   a. Frozen Style

      Frozen style (Oratorical style) is defined as the most formal communicative style and elegant variety that is reserved for very important or symbolic moments such as in a palace, church, state speech ceremony, and other occasions. It is frequently used in formal or respectful situations. The Frozen style is characterized by fixed and unchanging language, often seen in official statements, quotes, or captions that follow specific rules or guidelines. On Instagram, this style may be used for sharing timeless quotes, historical facts, or traditional sayings.

   b. Formal Style

      In general, formal style is used in formal situations where there is little shared background knowledge and communication is one-sided with little or no audience feedback. It means that formal style vocabulary is extensive, standard speech is used, low tempo speech is used, and repetition is avoided. Scholar and technical reports, classrooms, formal speeches, and sermons are all examples of formal style. The Formal style is more professional and follows conventional language norms. It is often used in informative or promotional posts on Instagram, such as brand announcements, product descriptions, or educational content. The tone is typically respectful, polished, and adheres to standard grammar and vocabulary. This language usage typically follows a standard format, such as “May,” “Might,” or “Can,” as well as “Mr.” or “Sir” when addressing or calling someone by their last name.

   c. Consultative Style

      Consultative style, also known as business style, is a language style that is commonly used in semi-formal settings. It is used in information exchange, as well as operational and transaction processes. When the speaker speaks, he or she will almost certainly bring up a background topic as a jumping off point for the conversation. As a result, the recipient must provide feedback to the speaker using simple sentences like “oh”, “yes”, and “I see”. This happens because the speaker and listener have a distant relationship, but the conversation requires a simple response to proceed.

d. Casual Style

Casual Style, also known as relax language, is a language variety used in conversation, recreation, sport, and other activities. According to Joos (1976), when in an informal situation, friends and coworkers use a casual style. The Casual style is relaxed, informal, and resembles everyday conversation. It is commonly used on Instagram for personal accounts, lifestyle blogs, or content that aims to connect with followers on a friendly level. Captions may include slang, emojis, or colloquial expressions.

e. Intimate Style

Intimate style is a communication style used among family and friends, often used in incomplete sentences and with minimal emphasis on articulation. It features private code, words indicating intimate relationships, rapid pronunciation, nonverbal communication, and nonstandard forms. This style is commonly used in pair conversations and includes intimate labels like "daling," "honey," "dear," and "dad." It is highly personal and emotional, expressing deep connections or sharing personal experiences. It is often found in captions reflecting vulnerability, gratitude, or introspection, and can be used on social media for sharing personal stories or heartfelt messages.

3. Language in Media

According to Allan Bell (1995), media language has been a subject of interest for linguists, particularly applied linguists and sociolinguists, for four main reasons. Firstly, media provides an accessible source of language data for research and teaching purposes. Secondly, media are important linguistic institutions, as their output makes up a significant portion of the language people hear and read daily. Media usage influences language use and attitudes in speech communities, and can serve as the primary or sole source of native-speaker models for second language learners. Thirdly, media use language is interesting linguistically, as seen in advertising, tabloid newspapers, and radio personalities. Fourthly, media are important social institutions, as they present culture, politics, and social life, shaping and reflecting these aspects. Media discourse is crucial for revealing about a society and contributing to its character.
4. Social Media

According to Tuten and Solomon (2015), “Social media are the online means of communication, conveyance, collaboration, and cultivation among interconnected and interdependent networks of people, communities, and organizations enhanced by technological capabilities” (p. 4). Basically, it is the websites and applications people use every day to share content with other users. According to Manning (2014), social media is a term used to denote new media approaches that involve communication between people or groups of people. Interaction between individuals or between groups of people is possible through social networking sites.

5. Instagram

Instagram is a popular photo-sharing app (Chante, 2014; Salomon, 2013). Instagram is a mobile program that lets users take photos, edit them with numerous tools, and rapidly publish them on social media (Hochman & Schwartz, 2012). Even though the app was released in 2010, it has grown tremendously. Instagram was expected to have 100 million users and four billion photos in 2013 (Abbott, 2013). Over 75 million people use Instagram daily, posting 16 billion photographs and sharing them.

Instagram is more popular among young people and all areas of life than other social media platforms (Abbott, 2013; Salomon, 2013). According to Solomon (2013), teens spend more time on Instagram than Facebook. Young mobile users are likely tempted to take photos with their phones and share them immediately (Abbott, 2013). Instead of relying simply on words, users can now connect with friends and bigger groups of users with similar interests more efficiently, conveniently, and excitingly (Bakhshi, 2013).
